

Preparing for Your Child's Elementary School Enrollment

【Pre-Elementary School Orientation】

This article is available in audio.

How much do you know about Japanese elementary schools? GOCA will hold a Pre-Elementary School Orientation for parents and guardians with overseas roots to get you and your child ready. Please visit the GOCA website for details.

The orientation will include explanations of school supplies necessary for elementary school, school events, and other important matters. Parents who have already sent their children to elementary school will also be there to share their experiences.

For: Parents and guardians with overseas roots who have a child of four to six years of age.

* Interpreting will be provided (English, Chinese, and other languages).

* Childcare is available (a reservation is required) for the first five children (at least 18 months old but not yet elementary school age) will be accepted.

【Workshop: “Reading Easy Japanese”】

This workshop helps non-Japanese residents read a variety of Japanese books written in “easy Japanese,” a simplified form of the language that differs from what the Japanese speak and what appears in Japanese novels. The books are divided into levels from beginner to advanced, letting you read at the level that suits you best. With content ranging from Japanese folktales to literature, the books allow you to enjoy learning about Japanese customs and culture as you practice reading.
